Habitat for Humanity Announces New President and CEO

Catherine Steck McManus was recently announced as the new president and CEO of Habitat for Humanity of Greater Orlando Area.

"To say I'm thrilled only expresses a fraction of my excitement in joining the Habitat Greater Orlando team," says McManus. "Our affiliate has worked on some tremendous projects over the last several years – and with the Home Builders Blitz at Butler's Preserve around the corner, I'm looking forward to keeping that momentum going."

Having nearly two decades of experience in the non-profit field, McManus has had roles in development, communications, operations and administration. Most recently, she served as Chief Development Officer for Camp Boggy Creek, where she led the statewide philanthropy and marketing efforts for the organization.
